3. Judiciary : It determines the work of executives to carry out the policies in a systematic manner, in order to settle relationship between citizens and the government.

Question 5.

Impact of new economic policy on business and industry.

Answer:

(A) Introduction : On July, 1991, the Government of India announced its New Industrial Policy. It brought about radical changes in the Economic Policy. The three main pillars of Economic reforms are L – P – G (Liberalisation, Privatisation and Globalisation). The main purpose was to modernise India's Industrial system, implement new techniques, remove unproductive control, encourage private investment and integrate our economy with the global economy.

(B) Impact of changes in Government Policy on Business and Industry:

1. Budgetary Support: The Central Government's budgetary support for financing the public sector outlays has declined over the years. In order to survive and grow, PSUs have to be more efficient and self sufficient so as to compete with private sector.
2. Increase in Competition : Competition for Indian firms has increased due to the changes in the rules of industrial licensing and entry of foreign firms, for e.g. Service Industries like Insurance, Banking, Telecommunications, Hotel and Airlines, etc. which were earlier in the public sector are now facing competition from private players such as Bajaj Alliance, Max Life, Star Life, Insurance, low cost airlines like Indigo, etc.
3. New Trade Policy : The new trade policy has helped the Indian Firms to enter into foreign markets and earn the foreign exchange required for importing raw materials, spare parts and components they needed for keeping their production lines going.

4. Demanding Customers : Today's market is customer oriented as customers are well informed and there is growing awareness among them about the malpractices adopted by traders, consumer rights, consumer education and so on. Moreover, competition in the market gives the customer wider choice in purchasing good quality product and makes customer more demanding.

5. Need for Human Resource Development : New technologies require expert knowledge and skill in various fields. Moreover, newer markets made it compulsory for companies to acquire trained personnel with high degree of competence and commitment. Hence, there is a need for well trained staff and thereby develop human resources.

6. Change in Technological Environment : Increased competition and advancements in the field of technology have forced the business units to develop new ways to survive and grow in the market and keep pace with latest technological developments.

7. Change in the Concept of Marketing : Earlier business organisations were production oriented but due to fast changing business world it has now become market oriented. This changed to societal concept where needs of society are kept in mind by the producers. The latest is relationship marketing whereby it is not only producing goods for consumers but maintaining long term relationship with them so as to sustain them.

Question 1.

What is business environment? Explain the important of business environment.

Answer:

(A) Business Environment:

A business is defined as buying and selling activity to generate income. Business consists of several interrelated and interacting elements. Business is an economic and social activity of the society. Society is an integral part of the business and its interest cannot be ignored.

<https://www.indcareer.com/schools/maharashtra-board-solutions-class-11-organisation-of-commerce-and-management-chapter-7-business-environment/>

Business environment consists of economic, social, legal, technological and political situation. Business obtains money, material, machinery and manpower and other resources from environment.

According to B. O. Wheeler – Business environment is “the total of all things external to firms and individuals which effect their organisation and operations”.

According to Oxford English Dictionary – “Business Environment refers to those aspects of the surroundings of a business enterprise which influence or effect its operations and determine its effectiveness.”

Basically business environment consists of all internal and external factors that influence the nature and scope of business activity.

(B) Importance of Business Environment:

(viii) Adaptability to Socio-Economic Changes : A business organization needs to show its keen intentions towards adapting to the socio-economic changes.

Question 2.

Explain the new economic policy in details.

Answer:

The new economic policy was introduced by the Government on 24th July, 1991, on the failure of the earlier Industrial policy prevailing in India.

The new policy was known as LPG i.e. Liberalisation, Privatisation and Globalisation. This was the brain child of the Prime Minister P. V. Narasimha Rao and the finance minister Dr. Manmohan Singh.

(i) Liberalisation:

It means to liberate the industry, trade and commerce from the unnecessary restrictions and regulations that curtailed the freedom of enterprise.

Liberalisation has helped the Indian economy to open up and allowed the entry of foreign business in India. The interaction with the world has happened after the 1991 policy.

Liberalisation policy has brought about the following measures:

<https://www.indcareer.com/schools/maharashtra-board-solutions-class-11-organisation-of-commerce-and-management-chapter-7-business-environment/>

1. Encouraging Direct Foreign Investment.
2. Wide Choice of products and services enjoyed by the customers.
3. Reduction in control of Foreign Exchange.
4. Cost of products, price and quality in tune to the global markets.
5. Changing the approach towards industrial sickness.
6. Production of quality products to meet the competitive markets.
7. Freedom to choose the Scale of business.
8. Reduction in tax rates, tax holidays, etc.
9. Encouraging new technology, technological upgradation and foreign collaboration.
10. Import of machinery, goods and other services on easy terms.
11. Abolishing licensing system for most of the industries.
12. Opening telecommunication sector.

Liberalisation has thus made the country achieve high growth rate, made the rupee stronger and helped good industrial relations.

(ii) Privatisation:

Privatisation is a process of transferring ownership of business, enterprise agency or public service from the public sector (government) to the private sector.

Features of Privatisation are:

1. To provide variety of business units to consumers.
2. To ensure less political interference in running the business.
3. To bring about more accountability.
4. To reduce labour problem.
5. To bring about a market oriented approach.
6. To make competition more intense.
7. To bring about more efficiency.
8. To maintain capital market discipline.

The government of the country has followed a disinvestment policy.

Disinvestment means:

1. When there is a sale of a public undertaking in full or part of private sector without transferring the ownership to private sector.

<https://www.indcareer.com/schools/maharashtra-board-solutions-class-11-organisation-of-commerce-and-management-chapter-7-business-environment/>

2. The management and control is transferred to public undertaking e.g. Maruti Udyog Ltd., SAIL, ONGC, etc.
3. Improvement in the performance of the industries through Memorandum of Understanding (MoU). Privatisation helps the private sector to be efficient result oriented, productive and active. Capitalist countries like America and Japan have followed privatisation.

(iii) Globalisation:

When the operation and organization of business activities are on a global scale, it is called as Globalisation. It is integration of business activities by considering the entire world is one market.

In short globalisation means a boundary less world, where there would be a free flow of goods, services, information, capital and people across nations. Globalisation has effect on socio-economic and political sphere of life.

Features of Globalisation:

1. Buying and selling goods from/to any country is possible due to globalisation.
2. Establishing manufacturing, production and distribution facilities in any part of the world.
3. Freedom to set up' and operate business in any part of the world.
4. Render faster economic development of any country.
5. Exchange of new ideas and technology across nations.
6. Narrowing differences between domestic and international market.
7. Direct Foreign private participation in the industrial development of any country.

Thus it could be seen that globalisation is an evolutionary concept. Through the policy of 1991 the government moved the country to this globalisation pattern.
